THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA
AT CHAPEL HILL

SATURDAY, MAY SEVENTEENTH AND SUNDAY, MAY EIGHTEENTH TWO THOUSAND THREE

Greetings from the Chancellor

Dear Graduates:

Congratulations on reaching this wonderful milestone in your life! I wish you joy today—you earned it. Your road was long, so congratulations are also in order for the family members and friends who supported you in your educational journey. Please thank them and let them know the University's faculty and staff are proud of you.

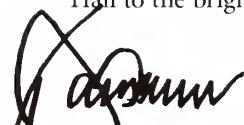

We celebrate this year the one hundredth birthday of our Graduate School, and during this commencement weekend we are inaugurating the school's Doctoral Hooding Ceremony. Postgraduate scholarship constantly enlarges the frontiers of knowledge. We are proud of the accomplishments of these scholars and the long tradition of graduate education at Carolina.

You leave with a heightened sense of the difficulties and danger that lie outside our charmed academic community in Chapel Hill. You have classmates who went on active military duty and left the University before graduation day, and you have still more classmates who are about to begin active military service. Please keep these fellow Tar Heels in your heart. Think of them, as I do, with gratitude for their service to their country—to all of us—and hope for their safety at home and overseas.

As you leave here to start your own careers, to begin families, to continue your higher education, or to seek further adventures, I hope you always find that your Carolina degree opens doors and commands respect. I hope it leads to wonderful and unexpected opportunities. Remember, too, that your diploma is more than a one-way ticket. The words "The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill" stand for the highest ideals of public higher education, including service. Our University's founders understood that an educated person is a public asset. That is why taxpayers are willing to underwrite your education. Just as you and your classmates have been supported on the shoulders of family and community members, taxpayers, former graduates, and Carolina donors, now your strong shoulders are ready, I hope, to support others.

The Carolina faculty and staff all join me in wishing you the best. However far you go, you always will be connected to the University and to your fellow Carolina alumni. Keep in touch with each other. Write us here at the University to let us know where your life's path takes you. And please return to this beautiful community on a hill as often as you can. This will always be your place.

"Hail to the brightest star of all." And farewell.

James Moeser

Alma Mater

The words of “Hark the Sound,” UNC-Chapel Hill’s alma mater, were written in 1897 by William Starr Myers, a graduating senior. The Glee Club director asked Myers to put words to the tune “Amici,” and the song was first performed on June 2, 1897, as part of the Glee Club’s Commencement performance in Gerrard Hall.

Soon the song was almost forgotten. When a University quartet tried a few years later to remember the words, they could recollect only the first verse and the chorus of Myers’ original version. Two members of the quartet, Charles S. Mangum and Charles T. Woollen, added two verses to the one they remembered. Mangum later became a professor in the School of Medicine, and Woollen worked as the University’s business manager and controller.

Hark the Sound

Hark, the sound of Tar Heel voices
Ringing clear and true,
Singing Carolina’s praises,
Shouting N.C.U.!

Hail to the brightest star of all!
Clear its radiance shine!
Carolina, priceless gem,
Receive all praises thine.

For Your Information

A sign language interpreter will be on the platform at both the Doctoral Hooding on Saturday and Commencement on Sunday. A student marshal or Disability Services staff member can advise persons with hearing impairments about seating from which to view the interpreter.

This Commencement program is printed prior to administering final examinations. Therefore, including degree candidates’ names in this program does not represent certification that candidates have satisfactorily completed degree requirements.

Diplomas for bachelor’s, master of science, and master of arts degrees will be printed after commencement and mailed to graduates. Graduates with master’s degrees that contain an area of study in the degree, such as Master of Accounting, may obtain their diplomas in a special departmental or school ceremony or may pick up a diploma from the Office of the Registrar in Hanes Hall until 2 p.m. Sunday. Unclaimed diplomas will be mailed to graduates.

The University Seal

The first seal of The University of North Carolina, designed in 1790, showed the face of Apollo and his emblem, the rising sun, used to symbolize the dawn of higher education in the state. The words "SIGUL UNIVERSITAT CAROL SEPTENT" (Seal of The University of North Carolina) surrounded the drawing. A modification in 1895 added lighted torches of learning beside Apollo's profile. Two years later another alteration replaced Apollo's head with a shield on which the words Lux (light) and Libertas (liberty), separated by a white band running from the upper right to the lower left of the shield, appeared.

In the 1940s some observers mistakenly claimed the white stripe on the shield was a bend sinister, a heraldic code that was demeaning. In truth, the stripe was a bar sinister and merely denoted a second or later son. Still, the direction of the stripe was reversed, removing any question of stigma.

Today's seal is the same as the 1897 version, except the stripe runs from the upper left to the lower right.

UNC-Chapel Hill: The First State University

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill originated in the N.C. state constitution of 1776, which proclaimed that "all useful learning shall be duly encouraged and promoted in one or more universities."

Carolina's charter was approved in 1789 and the cornerstone of the first building, Old East, was laid on October 12, 1793. The University annually celebrates Carolina's birth date each October 12. In 1795 the University opened its doors for students.

The University of Georgia at Athens also claims the honor of "first state University." Georgia's constitution of 1777 lays no foundation for state-supported higher education. The university was chartered in 1785, four years before UNC, and those who claim the honor of "first state university" for Georgia refer to this date.

North Carolinians contend that a university begins not when chartered, but when students first enroll in instructional programs and use the school's facilities.

The University of Georgia did not open until 1801, six years after Hinton James enrolled as the first student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Three years after his arrival Carolina graduated its first class.

James Moeser, Chancellor

As its ninth chancellor, Dr. James Moeser leads the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's efforts to set the standard for excellence among America's major public research universities.

"Carolina has the potential to enter a new defining moment—of being not only America's first public university, but being first among public universities in our nation," Moeser says. "When people around the world list the great American universities, we want to make certain Carolina is on the short list. We have set our sights that high. This is a great vision for Carolina, and it is an attainable ambition."

For Moeser, who started in August 2000, making new history at Carolina began with his efforts to help secure North Carolinians' overwhelming approval of the $3.1 billion bond referendum for higher education. The referendum, approved in November 2000, was the nation's largest higher education bond package.

The referendum is helping fuel an unprecedented physical transformation of one of America's most beautiful campuses. The bonds are bringing Carolina $510 million for renovations, repairs, and new buildings so that 21st century students can learn in a 21st century environment. Also guided by a visionary master plan for future growth, the University is investing another $600-plus million from nonstate sources for other buildings essential to continued excellence. The University is also beginning to plan for a possible mixed-use development called Carolina North on the Horace Williams tract north of the main campus.

Among Moeser's key responsibilities is to lead private fund-raising efforts. On October 12, 2002 he announced the $1.8 billion goal for the Carolina First Campaign, a multi-year effort to position Carolina as the nation's leading public university. The campaign, the largest in the University's history, has among its goals the creation of 200 new endowed professorships and 1,000 new scholarships and fellowships. The campaign is already strengthening Carolina's competitive position among America's greatest research universities, both public and private.

"Two years ago, I pledged to the people of North Carolina to take the critical investment they made in Carolina's future through the bond referendum and at least triple it in private support to this university," Moeser says. "We shall make good on that pledge at a very minimum."

Planning strategically for UNC's long-term future has been the hallmark of Moeser's administration. Under his leadership and early in his tenure, Carolina launched an initiative committing at least $245 million over the next decade to the emerging field of genome sciences. The public-private partnership positions Carolina to be a national leader in determining how the genomics revolution will change the ways in which doctors treat diseases, scientists design drugs and farmers grow crops.

Carolina recently cracked the top 20 list, as compiled by the National Science Foundation, of national universities receiving federal science and engineering funding. That achievement is remarkable considering Carolina has no engineering school. Of Carolina's $254 million total, $218 million came from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Nearly $16 million was from NSF.

Such emphasis on science is balanced by an equal commitment to the arts and humanities. "The humanities and social sciences are our historical areas of strength," Moeser says. "We also have an obligation to provide our students and this region with the finest in the arts, and to preserve the incredible architectural archive of the historic campus. I subscribe to Thomas Jefferson's view that we teach with the built environments we create in buildings and landscapes."

Moeser moved quickly to fill key administrative posts. In 2001, he tapped Dr. Robert Shelton, a physicist who led research at the University of California Office of President, to become provost and executive vice chancellor and lead a campuswide effort to determine future academic priorities. Nancy Suttenfield, former vice president for finance and administration at Case Western Reserve University, joined as vice chancellor for finance and administration. Dr. Tony Waldrop, a Morehead Scholar and track star, returned to Chapel Hill as vice chancellor for research and graduate studies. Moeser says those appointments complement an outstanding group of vice chancellors and deans that comprise one of American higher education's finest administrative teams.

Other focal points of Moeser's first two years have included vigorously pursuing efforts to create a more global university, advocating for continued improvements in the quality of the freshman class, expanding growth in research funding, and increasing emphasis on technology-transfer activities because of the direct impact faculty research has on the state's economy.

On campus, Moeser has supported efforts to enhance undergraduate education, advance the Carolina Computing Initiative and its laptop computer requirement for freshmen and review the student judiciary and Honor Court systems. He has also championed the University's longtime commitment to diversity. Recent accolades include a Journal of Blacks in Higher Education ranking placing Carolina first among public campuses and sixth overall in an assessment of the success of America's leading universities in integrating African Americans. Carolina ranked fourteenth among the top 50 campuses for African Americans as listed by Black Enterprise magazine. That ranking, the highest for a major public university, was based on a survey to determine which schools were good social and academic fits for black students.

Moeser was unanimously elected chancellor in April 2000 by the UNC Board of Governors and arrived after four years as chancellor of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln.

A concert organist, Moeser began his career in 1966 at the University of Kansas as an assistant professor and chairman of the Department of Organ. He became dean of the School of Fine Arts in 1975. In 1984, he was named Althaus Distinguished Professor of Organ, becoming the first academic dean at Kansas ever to hold an endowed chair. In 1986, Moeser joined The Pennsylvania State University as dean of the College of Arts and Architecture and executive director of University Arts Services. Six years later, he became vice president for academic affairs and provost of the University of South Carolina, a post he held until becoming chancellor of Nebraska in 1996.

In 2001, Moeser was named a member of the National Board for College Education, part of a national advisory committee guiding the College Board in introducing U.S. seventh graders to the college admissions process and encouraging them to consider college and take challenging courses. He also has recently been named a member of the editorial advisory board of University Business magazine, which covers the American higher education community.

As a past member of the Board of Governors of the Josephson Institute of Ethics, Moeser helped UNC partner with the institute and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association to bring hundreds of youth coaches from around the state to an ethics seminar in spring 2001. The seminar was part of the institute's national campaign to implement the Arizona Sports Summit Accord, crafted in 1999 by nearly 50 influential leaders including Moeser to emphasize the ethical and character-building aspects of athletic competition.

The chancellor also is a past member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, a voluntary group with more than 200 member institutions. He chaired the association's technology transfer commission and served on the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State and Land-Grant Universities. In North Carolina, he is a member of the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology, a trustee of the North Carolina Symphony Society Inc., a member of the Greater Triangle Regional Council, and a board member for the Microelectronics Center of North Carolina, the Research Triangle Institute, and the Triangle Universities Center for Advanced Studies.

A native of Colorado City, Texas, who grew up in Lubbock, Moeser received a Bachelor of Music degree with honors in 1961 and a Master of Music in Musicology in 1964 from the University of Texas at Austin. The Graduate School at Texas honored Moeser in 2001 with its Outstanding Alumnus Award. Moeser, a Fulbright scholar, graduated with a doctorate in musical arts from the University of Michigan in 1967. A past president of the American Guild of Organists, Moeser has chaired several national organ pedagogy conferences and consulted with numerous universities and churches.

Moeser is married to Dr. Susan Dickerson Moeser, a fellow concert organist and lecturer in music and university organist at UNC. He has two children from a prior marriage: a son, Chris, a second-year law student at the University of Arizona, and a daughter, Carter, a physical therapist in Tacoma, Wash.

The Doctoral Hooding Speaker

BETH ELISE WHITAKER

Beth Elise Whitaker is originally from Delmar, New York. She received her bachelor's degree from Princeton University in 1993, followed by a M.A. in Political Science in 1995 and a Ph.D. in Political Science in 1999, both from UNC-Chapel Hill.

As a graduate student, Whitaker was a Lovick P. Corn Dissertation Fellow in the Graduate School's prestigious Society of Fellows. Her research focused on the impact of the approximately 1.3 million refugees from Rwanda, Burundi, and the Democratic Republic of Congo (formerly Zaire) who fled to communities in northwestern Tanzania. She spent two years in Tanzania, looking at the costs and benefits of the African refugees' presence in that country.

After graduating from Carolina, Whitaker moved to Washington, D.C., where she served as a senior research assistant for the Africa Project at the Brookings Institution. She subsequently worked for nearly two years on a USAID-funded project for the American Council on Education, which supports partnerships between higher education institutions in the United States and developing countries.

Whitaker also served as an adjunct professor at George Washington University, where she taught courses in African politics and international relations. While in Washington, Whitaker conducted an inventory of U.S.-South African research and training collaborations for the Social Science Research Council.

In Fall 2002, Whitaker began serving as an assistant professor in the Department of Political Science at UNC-Charlotte. Among her many duties, she teaches introduction to comparative politics, political development, African foreign policy, and African politics.

Whitaker is one of two former UNC graduate students who now sit on the University's Graduate Education Advancement Board. The board is responsible for championing the cause of Carolina graduate education and for increasing support for our graduate students.

Pioneer to Powerhouse: A History of Graduate Education at Carolina

The Graduate School is taking the opportunity of its one hundredth anniversary to celebrate the long and distinguished history of graduate education at Carolina. This yearlong centennial celebration includes the inauguration of a new hooding ceremony for doctoral students, a national forum on building public partnerships, awards for graduate students whose research contributes to the state of North Carolina, the initiation of a graduate student speakers bureau, and the release of a book on the history of graduate education.

Although the Graduate School was officially created in 1903, there has been an advanced education and research presence on the Carolina campus as early as 1792. The development of graduate education at Carolina is closely interwoven with the University's own history. As the University grew, so did its early impulses toward advanced study and research.

The history of Carolina is marked by its humble beginnings in 1795 when instruction began with only two faculty members and a few dozen undergraduate students. During that first decade, however, there existed some glimmer of advanced scholarly investigation with the University's purchase of scientific research equipment in 1792 and its acquisition of a 100-volume library in 1795.

A master's degree was instituted at Carolina in the first-half of the 1800s, though it only faintly resembled the degree we know today. The earliest master's degrees were honorary ones and procured by college graduates who distinguished themselves in their professions or in public life. The first recorded reference to earned graduate degrees at Carolina, appearing in the 1853-1854 University Catalogue, required one additional year after the bachelor's degree but no research. The first earned master's degree was awarded in 1856 to Needham Cobb.

In 1876 the University established its first research-based graduate program. While the master's degree still required only one year of study, master's candidates submitted theses and took examinations. One year later, the University announced its first Ph.D. program. The first degrees under the new system were awarded in 1883 when William Battle Phillips received the University's first Ph.D. and Henry Horace Williams received the first research-based M.A.

After strengthening its offerings of faculty and courses, the University in 1903 established a distinct department now known as the Graduate School.

The University appointed Dr. Charles Alphonso Smith as the first graduate dean. Other advances included the addition of a new library, the acquisition of important journals and reference materials, and the creation of the first Kenan professorships. During the 1920s, Dean Edwin Greenlaw initiated a massive reorganization of the Graduate School, which included adding a graduate faculty, creating twenty teaching fellowships, and expanding the Committee on Graduate Study into the Administrative Board that exists today.

Throughout the twentieth century, numerous political, social, and educational changes continued to influence graduate education. University consolidation in the 1930s increased the visibility of graduate study by locating graduate work at the Chapel Hill campus. The post-World War II influx of veterans intensified the need for teaching assistants and provided graduate students with new positions and responsibilities within the University system. More recently, the changing economic landscape of the 1980s and 1990s has once again challenged the Graduate School to adjust to new demands in business and industry, and to negotiate new sources of financial support.

The twentieth century also witnessed the diversification of graduate education at Carolina. Women gained admittance to the University in 1897; two received master's degrees in 1899. In 1924, Irene Dillard and Anna Forbes Liddell earned the first Ph.D.s awarded to women at Carolina. The formal desegregation of the University occurred in the 1950s and by 1960, Carolina had awarded master's degrees to eleven African Americans. In 1964, William A. Darity became the first African American to earn a Ph.D. from Carolina.

By the fall 2002 semester, about 25 percent of Carolina's graduate and professional students were U.S. minorities or international students and approximately 59 percent of Carolina's graduate and professional students were women. Graduate and professional student enrollment now constitutes more than one-third of the total student body and represents more than 7,500 students. The Graduate School has expanded to include 64 doctoral-level programs and 91 master-level programs. The Graduate School awarded approximately 1,570 master's and doctoral degrees during the 2001-02 academic year.

Graduate education at Carolina has evolved over time in response to the needs of the University and the state of North Carolina and within the context of the social, economic, and political environment of the state and the nation. Excellence in graduate education can be attributed to exceptionally talented faculty and students, visionary leaders, and to sustained state, federal, and private support. The challenges change with each generation of scholars, but the commitment to excellence in graduate education remains a hallmark of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Commencement Speaker and Honorary Degree Recipient

WILLIAM HENRY COSBY JR.

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Bill Cosby is a unique blend of a talented entertainer whose phenomenal success makes him one of America's best-loved personalities and an intellectual who is deeply committed to the importance of education.

Cosby's entertainment career began with the TV shows "I Spy" (1965-68) and "The Bill Cosby Show" (1969-71). A long line of TV shows and TV movies followed, as well as films, albums, and books such as The Wit and Wisdom of Fat Albert (1973). Along the way, Bill Cosby garnered four Emmy Awards and eight Grammy Awards. In 1986 he set the concert attendance record at Radio City Music Hall.

In the midst of his early TV career, Bill Cosby enrolled in the University of Massachusetts where he earned his Doctor of Education degree in 1977.

Calling himself a "late bloomer," Cosby says he did not realize the value of a formal education until after the first four days of boot camp in the U.S. Navy. Four years later, when he completed his tour of duty, "I hit the ground running from Norfolk, Virginia, and immediately enrolled in Temple University in Philadelphia," he said.

Well known for his commitment to education, Bill Cosby believes that a satisfying and rewarding life begins with knowledge and is fulfilled with continually challenging oneself. He keeps working, he says, because life is about "accepting the challenges of one's own ideas, clarifying the unanswered questions, and pursuing the excitement of discovery."

A native of Philadelphia, Bill Cosby is married to Camille Hanks Cosby, who is equally passionate about the importance of education and also has earned a Doctor of Education degree. Together, they have worked to promote educational excellence and have donated funds to a wide range of universities. Bill Cosby's personal motto is "rationem educationis tuae reddere debeas," which can be translated as "one must render an account of one's education."

In appreciation of his warmth and humor, and in recognition of his lifelong commitment to education, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is pleased to confer on William Henry Cosby Jr. the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Honorary Degree Recipient

DREW SAUNDERS DAYS III

DOCTOR OF LAWS

Drew S. Days is the Alfred M. Rankin Professor of Law at Yale Law School. He is a distinguished public servant, a nationally recognized advocate for civil rights and justice, an outstanding legal scholar and teacher, and an involved and highly accomplished citizen.

Professor Days graduated with honors in English from Hamilton College (Clinton, New York) in 1963. He received his LL.B. degree from Yale University in 1966. After a brief private practice in Chicago and two years of service in Honduras in the Peace Corps, Days joined the staff of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund in 1969 where he litigated school desegregation, police misconduct, and employment discrimination cases. In 1977 the Senate confirmed him as Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights on nomination of President Carter. He served in that capacity until 1981 when he joined the Yale Law faculty. In 1993 Professor Days was nominated by President Clinton and confirmed by the Senate as Solicitor General of the United States. As Solicitor General, he was responsible for directing and overseeing the litigation program of the United States in the Supreme Court.

Professor Days returned to the Yale faculty in 1996. He teaches and writes in the fields of civil procedure, federal jurisdiction, Supreme Court practice, anti-discrimination law, comparative constitutional law (Canada and the United States), and international human rights. From 1988 to 1993 he was the founding director of the Orville H. Schell Jr. Center for Human Rights at the Yale Law School.

Professor Days has served on human rights fact-finding missions to five different countries for five different agencies. He renders extensive service to international and national entities such as the United States Delegation to the Helsinki Accords Follow-up, the Urban League, the American Law Institute, the Council on Foreign Relations, the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, the Edna McConnell Clark Foundation, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He lectures both here and abroad on a wide range of subjects.

Drew Days is married to Ann Ramsay Langdon, an artist and writer. They have two daughters, Alison, medical director of a Head Start health clinic in El Paso, Texas, and Elizabeth, an actress in New York City.

In recognition of distinguished service to humanity in the fields of public service, human rights, and legal education, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is pleased to confer on Drew Saunders Days III the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Honorary Degree Recipient

REYNOLDS PRICE

DOCTOR OF LETTERS

Reynolds Price is James B. Duke Professor of English at Duke University. His work has been published in seventeen languages. At one time Price was most widely known as a novelist, but it is now recognized that he excels as well in short stories, poetry, essays, plays, and translations. His two volumes of memoir are models of that genre. Thousands of readers have taken particular solace and inspiration from A Whole New Life (1994), an account of his determined struggle with the ravages of spinal cancer. His volumes, numbering thirty-five and counting, include A Palpable God (1978), a translation of thirty stories from the Bible; and Three Gospels (1996), a translation of the Gospels of Mark and John as well as “a modern apocryphal gospel” by Professor Price. When his Collected Poems appeared in 1997 it became clear that he is a poet of the first rank. In addition, this native of North Carolina has had his work performed on “American Playhouse” and at the Cleveland Playhouse, and he has served as host for a PBS documentary about the ninth Van Cliburn International Competition.

Professor Price has had numerous stints as a writer in residence. One of those was at Chapel Hill in 1965–1966, when he taught in the University’s Creative Writing Program. By then he had already gained a significant reputation, having published the novel A Long and Happy Life in 1962, for which he won the William Faulkner Award. That same year his first collection of short stories, The Names and Faces of Heroes, was published. Our students found him to be not only a major literary presence but an inspiring teacher as well.

Reynolds Price attended public school in North Carolina. He entered Duke University where he graduated first in his class in 1955. Price won a coveted and prestigious Rhodes Scholarship to study at Oxford University where he received his Bachelor of Letters. In 1958 he returned to Duke to join the faculty of the Department of English.

This proud, dignified man has written again and again about survival, endurance, and perseverance. His characters are mostly ordinary people existing in extraordinary moments. In an essay published in 1964 entitled “Country Mouse, City Mouse” he declared that writers “must live their lives in the places they know, probing those lives and homes in the hope of comprehending and controlling them, ordering their vision however narrow into art which is true enough to be a world, as though one county of North Carolina, say, (red dirt, green pines, black men white men scratching out lives, occasionally standing into them) were as perfect a mirror of man’s estate as all the boroughs of New York put together, all the cities and wastes of Russia. Which of course it is.”

Professor Price’s many honors include the National Book Critics Circle Award for Kate Vaiden, his sixth novel. He is a member of the Academy of Arts and Letters. It is with great pleasure that the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill confers upon Reynolds Price the degree of Doctor of Letters in recognition of his extraordinary contributions to the literary tradition of North Carolina, the South, and the nation.

Honorary Degree Recipient

C.D. (DICK) SPANGLER JR.
DOCTOR OF LAWS

For more than three decades C.D. (Dick) Spangler has stood astride the worlds of business and education like a colossus. A native of Charlotte, Spangler was the first in his family to attend college. He received his B.S. in Business from Carolina in 1954 and was inducted into the Order of the Golden Fleece. Upon graduation he earned his M.B.A. from the Harvard Business School, during which time his father also enrolled in the advanced management program. After a two-year tour of duty in the military, Spangler returned to the family business, C.D. Spangler Construction Company. He greatly expanded his family's financial interests to include Golden Eagle Industries, Inc., National Gypsum Company, and The Wakefield Group. He is credited with the turnaround of the Bank of North Carolina, started by his father. Today, C.D. Spangler is one of the most successful and admired businessmen of his generation.

While his many business interests expanded and prospered, C.D. Spangler undertook a parallel career in education that would have been more than enough to occupy the full time and attention of most people. In 1972 he was elected to the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education and served as its vice-chair. His leadership in that post was a major factor in the successful integration of North Carolina's largest public school system. From 1982 to 1986 he chaired the North Carolina State Board of Education, a vantage point that gave him deep insight into educational needs across the length and breadth of the state. In 1986 the Board of Governors elected C.D. Spangler as the fifteenth president of The University of North Carolina, a post he held for eleven years. During his tenure, Spangler was especially interested in the students. He habitually had lunch in Lenoir Hall where he would join a table for conversation. He has known personally more than one hundred and sixty student body presidents from across the UNC system and eleven editors of the Daily Tar Heel. He was a champion of low tuition, and was committed to opening the University's doors wide to women and minorities.

C.D. Spangler was elected this year as a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Other honors include the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award (1994); honorary degrees from Queens College, Davidson College, and Furman University; the Board of Governors' University Award; the Distinguished Public Service Award of the North Carolina Citizens for Business and Industry; and the Alumni Achievement Award of the Harvard Business School. Among many other benefactions the Spangler Foundation has contributed generously toward the creation of thirty-eight distinguished professorships within the University system, including the Raymond H. Dawson Bicentennial Distinguished Professorship of Political Science at Carolina.

In recognition of outstanding accomplishments in the business world and a distinguished career of public service to the people of North Carolina, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is pleased to confer upon C.D. (Dick) Spangler Jr. the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Notes on Academic Dress

The following information, condensed from An Academic Costume Code and Ceremony Guide and published by the American Council on Education, may be helpful in identifying academic attire worn during the weekend's ceremonies.

The history of academic dress dates back to the European Middle Ages when scholars at the oldest universities were clerics. Capes with hoods and warm caps were needed in cold, drafty buildings. The desire for a uniform appearance ("well born, well turned-out, and somewhat learned," read one medieval formula) and for marks to distinguish bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree candidates led to the development of today's academic costume.

In 1895, representatives from American colleges and universities met at Columbia University and fashioned a standard code of academic dress for this country. The code, modified in 1959, is still in force. The costumes, colors, trimmings, and patterns you see are traditional, and refer to the specific degree and field of study.

The bachelor's gown, designed to be worn closed, has pointed sleeves. The master's gown, which may be worn open or closed, has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist, that hangs nearly to the ground; the back part of its oblong shape is square cut and the arc in the front is cut away. The doctor's gown may be worn open or closed, and has bell-shaped sleeves.

Bachelors' and masters' gowns are untrimmed. Doctors' gowns are usually faced with black velvet, with three bars across the sleeves, although the color of the velvet may vary according to the field of study. Some doctoral candidates may wear a unique Carolina blue gown that features dark blue facings and crossbars outlined in white piping and bearing the University's shield supported by torches of learning. Hoods, which differ in length for the three degrees, are lined with official colors of the university or college that conferred the degree, usually with one color forming a chevron pattern over the other. Some colors you will see on faculty and administrators' robes are: the crimson of Harvard, the maroon of Chicago, the light blue and white of North Carolina, the orange and black of Princeton, and the dark blue of Yale.

Hoods also are edged and bound with velvet in the color appropriate to the field of study. You will see many hoods in our procession edged with dark blue, for doctor of philosophy (Ph.D.). The colors in the hoods and gowns of faculty represent the following fields in which degrees were taken:

APRICOT: Nursing

BROWN: Fine Arts

CITRON: Social Work

CRIMSON: Journalism

DARK BLUE: Philosophy

GREEN: Medicine

LEMON-YELLOW: Library Science

LIGHT BLUE: Education

LILAC: Dentistry

OLIVE-GREEN: Pharmacy

ORANGE: Engineering

PEACOCK BLUE: Public Administration

PINK: Music

PURPLE: Law

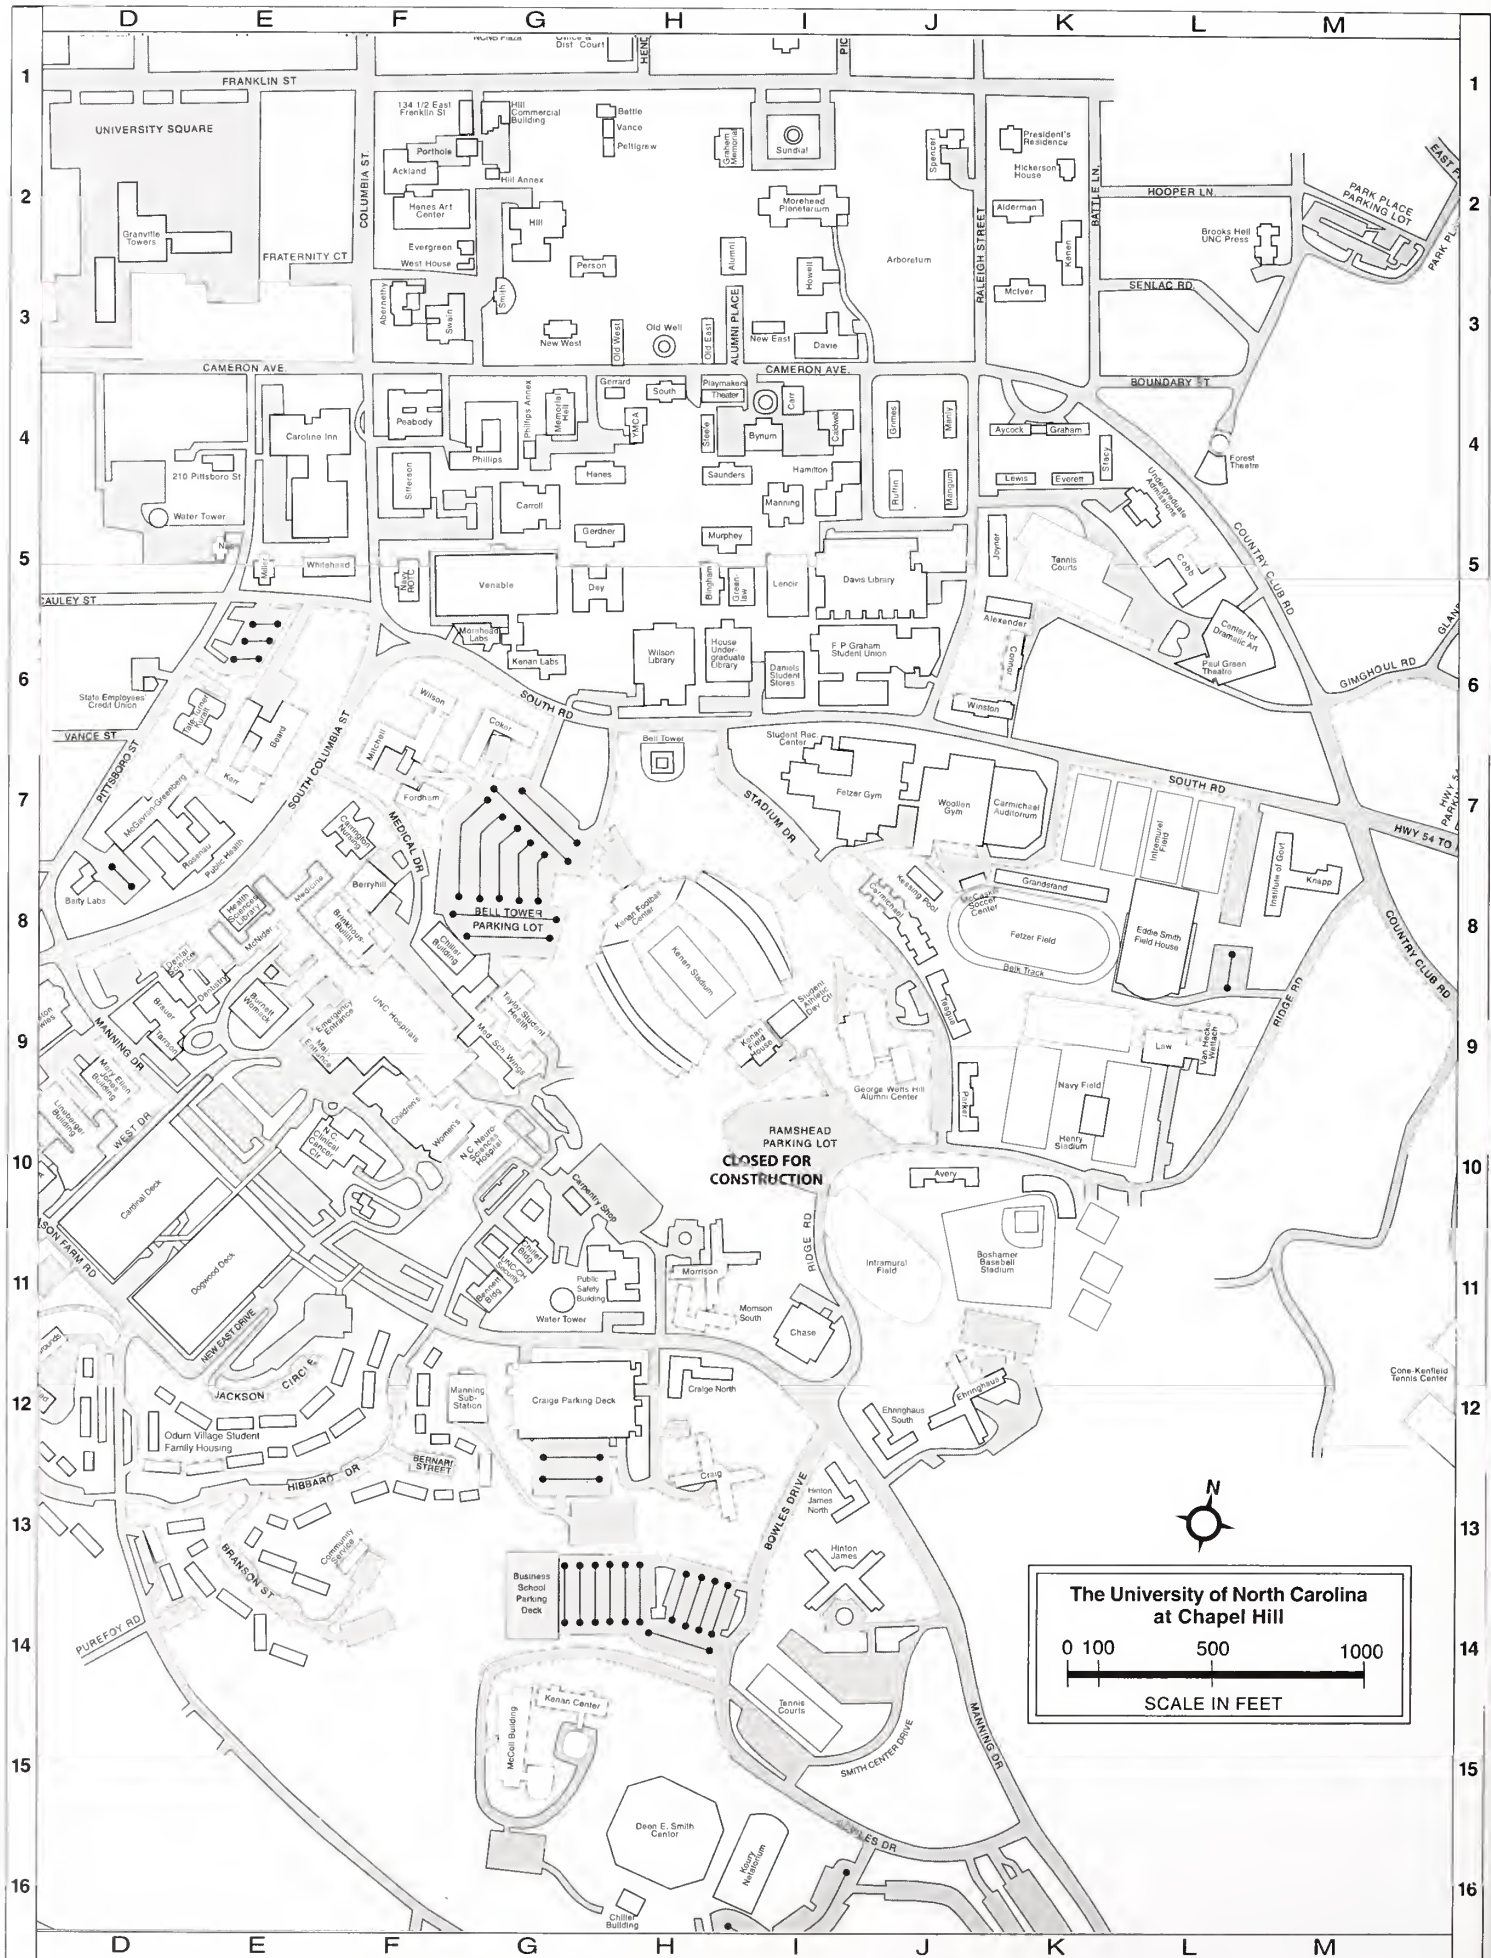

SAGE GREEN: Physical Education

SALMON PINK: Public Health

SCARLET: Theology

YELLOW-BROWN: Commerce, Business, Accountancy

WHITE: Arts, Letters, Humanities

Angela Michelle Coventry, Philosophy, Causation, Quasi-Realism, and David Hume. Professor Don Garrett.

Carolyn Beth Coyne, Pharmacology, Characterization and Modulation of Airway Tight Junctions. Professor Larry G. Johnson.

Tiffany Jacqueline Crawford, Pharmacology, Mammalian Homologues of Seven in Absentia Regulate the Degradation of Synaptophysin. Professor Lian Li.

Joseph Clark Crooker, Chemistry, Exploration of Mass Transport and Heterogeneous Electron Transfer in Cobalt Redox Polyether Hybrids. Professor Royce Murray.

Jeffrey Lyle Cross, Chemistry, Tungsten Oxo Complexes Containing A-Acid Ligands. Professor Joseph L. Templeton.

Shelley Catherine Danek, Chemistry, Part I: New Catalyst Discovery through Combinatorial Chemistry. Part II: Studies toward the Total Synthesis of Sorangicin A. Professor James P. Morken.

Michelle Ann Danis, Economics, A Discrete Choice Approach to Measuring the Effect of Inter-Exchange Competition in Equity Option Markets. Professor Helen Tauchen.

Karl Langston Davis, History, "Much of the Indian Appears": Adaptation and Persistence in a Creek Indian Community, 1783-1854. Professor Theda Perdue.

Lisa Pullen Davis, Health Behavior and Health Education, The Role of Goal Setting and Social Support in Promoting Physical Activity Behaviors among African American Women with Type 2 Diabetes. Professor Brenda DeVellis.

Erica Denise Dawson, Chemistry, Acetonitrile as a Probe of the Structure and Dynamics in Important Analytical Mixtures and Interfacial Systems. Professor Scott L. Wallen.

Hiawatha Cornell Demby Jr., Biomedical Engineering, Correlation of William's TMP Scores to Kinematic Events during Upper Thoracic Functional Reach. Professor Carol Lucas.

Tejas Arvind Desai, Biostatistics, Estimation in Presence of Missing Data Using Augmented Maximization. Professor Pranab K. Sen.

Jason Michael Dickenson, Philosophy, Actions, Reasons, and Motivational Strength. Professor Douglas Long.

Mary Foster Dillard, Health Behavior and Health Education, Material Demandingness and Responsiveness as Predictors of Adolescent Sexual-Risk Behavior. Professor Susan Ennett.

Matthew Owen Duffey, Chemistry, Enantioselective Total Synthesis of Borrelidin: Application of the Catalytic Asymmetric Reductive Aldol Reaction. Professor James P. Morken.

James Oliver Dunn, Physics, Dark Energy Parameters from Type Ia Supernova Number Counts and the Cosmic Microwave Background Anisotropy. Professor Paul H. Frampton.

Jill Marie Dunty, Cell and Developmental Biology, Biochemical and Biological Functions of FAK Family Kinases. Professor Michael D. Schaller.

William Clark Dunty Jr., Cell and Developmental Biology, Cellular and Molecular Bases for Ethanol-Induced Teratogenesis. Professor Kathleen K. Sulik.

Christopher Leonard Dwyer, Computer Science, Self-Assembled Computer Architecture: Design and Fabrication Theory. Professor Russell M. Taylor II.

John F. Dye, Education, Student Assignment Decisions as a Practice in Racial Superiority: The Culture of a Southern High School Community 1954 to 1960. Professor George Noblit.

Andrew Robert Dyke, Economics, Crime and Punishment: Economic Models of Crime and the Criminal Justice System. Professor Helen Tauchen.

Miles James Efron, Information and Library Science, Eigenvalue-Based Estimators for Optimal Dimensionality Reduction in Information Retrieval. Professor Gregory Newby.

Katherine Elizabeth Egerton, English, "Sick in Twos and Threes and Fours": Representation, Redemption, and Mental Illness in Arthur Miller's Later Plays. Professor J. Kimball King.

Paul Idahosa Eke, Epidemiology, Relationships between ISG Antibodies to Periodontal Organism and Cardiovascular Diseases. Professor James Beck.

Victoria Smith Ekstrand, Journalism and Mass Communication, Publishers, Pirates, and the Public Domain: Origins of the Hot News Doctrine and the Legacy of INS vs. AP. Professor Cathy Packer.

Deborah Marie Evans, English, The Revolting Union: A Study of White-Indian Interracial Marriage in Nineteenth-Century Women's Writing. Professor Joy Kasson.

Michael Jackson Everton, English, "Moral Vampires and the Blood of Genius": Vocational Ethics in Early American Literary Culture. Professor Philip F. Gura.

Jamie María Ferrán, Romance Languages and Literatures, From Social Poetry to City Poetry: Social and Urban Themes in the Poetry of José Agustín Goytisolo (Works from 1958-1993). Professor José M. Polo.

Kathryn Ann Fiscelli, Classics, The Significance of Plants in Roman Funerary Ritual. Professor Jerry Linderski.

Christopher Fischer, History, Alsace to the Alsatians? Visions and Divisions of Regionalism in Alsace, 1890 to 1930. Professor Konrad Jarausch.

Carolina's diversity and numerous international opportunities have given me an education with an international focus. My academic experience culminated with a semester of studying French with UNC's program in Montpellier, France and a summer in Manila, Philippines doing an internship sponsored by Kenan-Flagler Business School. This scrapbook holds memories from these rewarding experiences that have shaped my future career and my life.

The APPLES Service Learning Program has been an integral part of my experience at Carolina. It provided me with a sense of community and a unique way to combine my academic interests with community service. My education at UNC would not make sense unless I could give back to my community and contribute to society in a positive way.

My bike has been a constant for me at Carolina. I peddled it to school every day, spoke poems to its creaks and rhythms, protested war with its soft hum. Since I live off campus, my bike represents the opportunity to engage in both university and town life. As a baker, a tutor and a student, I sought to integrate these overlapping communities in my activities. Carolina's outward focus has allowed me to do this.

This hammer was a gift from my host family after a summer-long service project in Flores Barrio, Costa Rica. I used the hammer to construct more than twenty latrines for the village. In addition to strengthening my commitment to making service a central part of my years at Carolina, this experience gave true meaning to my studies of social and foreign policy within the Political Science Department.

Colors

As symbols of unity among Carolina students, alumni, and fans, the school colors of light blue and white were first used around 1800 to distinguish between members of the Dialectic and Philanthropic Literary Societies. Throughout the nineteenth century, students were required to be members of either the Di or the Phi. The Di's color was light blue, and the Phi's was white.

At University commencements, balls, and other social events, the student officials, managers, and marshals wore the color of their society, blue or white. Because the Chief Marshal or Chief Ball Manager represented the whole student body, not just his society, he wore both colors.

When the University fielded its first intercollegiate athletic teams in 1888, the question of what colors to wear had already been answered. Light blue and white had come to symbolize membership in the University, not in a single society.

Light blue and white have been considered the University's colors for more than a century. With the tradition so firmly established, a popular bumper sticker states that God must be a Tar Heel because he made the sky Carolina Blue!

Tar Heels

The University not only uses the nickname "Tar Heels," but the entire state does as well. One version of the nickname's origin has the name first being applied to North Carolinians during the Civil War. One record talks of a battle in Virginia, where their supporting column retreated, but North Carolina troops stood alone to fight successfully. The victorious troops were asked in a condescending tone by some Virginians, who had retreated, "Any more tar down in the Old North State, boys?" The response came quickly: "No; not a bit; old Jeff's bought it all up." The Virginians asked: "Is that so? What is he going to do with it?" The reply: "He is going to put it on you'ns heels to make you stick better in the next fight."

I spent my fall 2001 semester in Washington, D.C. through the Burch Field Research Seminar program. I interned at the National Low Income Housing Coalition, where I worked on the National Housing Trust Fund Campaign. This experience led me to write an honors thesis on affordable housing, and after graduation I want to pursue a career in community development.

My time at Carolina has cultivated my spirit of adventure. Once content to read and think about things, now I prefer to see them for myself. These license plates represent my college adventures: internships, vacation, a road trip, and the places I call home.

This volleyball represents the wonderful athletic experience I have had at Carolina. As a member of the Tar Heel volleyball team, I have been a part of three ACC Championships and went to the NCAA Sweet 16. The ball also represents my academic career as a student-athlete. From the beginning it was important that I work hard not only to accomplish my athletic goals, but also excel as a student.

As part of an APPLES service learning class, I had an internship with the Durham Inner-city Gardeners (DIG) program. Each week I worked alongside Durham teenagers to plant, weed, harvest, and market organic produce. This unique opportunity combined community involvement with my studies of economics and environmental studies, and my work with DIG still continues months after the semester officially ended.

For my senior honors thesis, I had the opportunity to interview my parents and recount my family's experiences as Vietnamese refugees. This was a fascinating and meaningful project for me because the Vietnamese experience in North Carolina is largely untold. In many ways, our story is still being formed.

This paddle represents my fraternity, Alpha Phi Alpha, through which I have experienced a tremendous sense of brotherhood and purpose. Because the paddle was given to me by one of my best friends who is not a fraternity brother, it also represents the lifestyle of diversity and inclusion that I have valued at Carolina.

I recently appeared in the title role of Benjamin Britten's 'Albert Herring' for the UNC opera workshop. In my vocal study, I have had the opportunity to improve as an actor and a musician. Thanks to my professors, I have gained the experience and musical knowledge to succeed in graduate study and pursue a professional singing career.

*My time at Carolina has been about searching.
 My search came full circle
 last summer, when I had the chance to explore Europe.
 While walking along the beach in the Italian Riviera,
 I found this rock. Every time I see it, I think about how valuable the act of searching has been to my experience here.*

This photo, taken during a volunteer summer project in Kenya, reminds me that selfless acts of kindness can change the world. My experiences in Africa reinforced an enduring belief that true success is not measured by the accolades I receive, but rather in meeting the physical, spiritual, and educational needs of those whose lives God privileges me to touch.

It started with a meeting over a cup of black coffee. Five months and 6,000 people later it was more on the order of a grande vanilla skim latte. Being a part of UNC's September 11th Volunteer Fair showed me that there are dedicated individuals here who want to help and bring about change. It was invigorating to watch hundreds of students connect with community nonprofit groups and join campus service organizations.

My passport was particularly important to me last year while I was studying abroad at the London School of Economics and traveling during the summer. After spending twenty years in Chapel Hill, being able to attend a British university and then backpacking around Asia was an invaluable experience that gave me a new perspective on the world.

Discussions in an honors seminar about the millions of uninsured Americans inspired me to establish Student Health OUTreach (SHOUT) at Carolina. SHOUT volunteers work with community organizations to enroll the state's uninsured children in government health insurance programs. The organization has enhanced my classroom knowledge of our health care system and has furthered my desire to help solve its problems.

In November 2000, I drove to Florida for The Daily Tar Heel to watch volunteers re-count presidential ballots to determine a winner. While doing research for my honors thesis, I held a letter signed by Franklin Roosevelt stamped "TOP SECRET." Moments like these are the fabric of Carolina.

The true measure of academic success which I have achieved at UNC cannot be measured by GPA or awards, but rather how effectively I will be able to share my education with others. My mind has enabled me to create a framework for understanding and appreciating the infinitely complex world that we live in. It has also enabled me to seek and acquire wisdom from both the schooled and unschooled, embracing lessons from both.

TERRY HARRINGTON

The 2003 Senior Class Gift

The Class of 2003 will establish an endowment for the recently renovated Robert B. House Undergraduate Library.

Opened in 1968, the "Undergrad" provided a state-of-the-art learning environment. But in the 32 years until its closing in December 2000 for renovation, the library became outmoded and rundown, with more than a million patrons using the facility each year. A completely renovated building greeted students in August 2002, with wired and wireless Internet connections, a reserve reading room, nine group study rooms, a new Media Resources Center (formerly nonprint), film and video screening rooms for classes of up to 45 students, a computer lab with about 65 computers, and more than 100 public computer stations.

The Undergraduate Library Endowment is a permanent investment that will help carry forward this transformation by providing updated resources for years to come. Each year about 5 percent of the income will be used to acquire materials in any format for the library. Over time, the gift will build a sizable collection of materials on the library's shelves, or accessed through the campus network, which will benefit countless other undergraduates.

The Class of 2003 gift includes the opportunity for class members to select quotes to put on plaques on the benches in front of the library. Those who contribute to the fund will have their names listed on a special plaque inside.

Anyone interested in supporting the Class of 2003 in their effort to fund the endowment can give to the gift.

A Message to Carolina's Newest Alumni

Congratulations! You are now a graduate of the University of North Carolina. During your years of living, studying, working, and celebrating here at Carolina, our University has helped shape who you are.

To help you maintain your Carolina connection, please consider joining your General Alumni Association, the official organization for all alumni and friends of our University. We're a self-governed, nonprofit organization funded primarily by membership dues.

Our membership roster is comprised of more than 65,000 alumni and friends. As a GAA member, you'll have access to all the GAA Member Rewards designed to help you stay connected to your friends and to Carolina.

Our graduation gift to you: The GAA is offering a year of membership for only $17.50—half off the normal annual dues of $35.00. We are also offering the Class of 2002 a $50.00 discount on life membership.

Online Alumni Directory: Keep track of where your Carolina friends are and what they are up to by using this fully searchable alumni directory.

Carolina Alumni Review: Find out who has moved up the job ladder and who was recently married in the Class Notes section of this award-winning magazine, which you will receive six times a year.

Welcome to the real world: Use the GAA's personalized Alumni Career Services to help you get started on life after graduation. If you're thinking about grad school, GAA members receive $75.00 off Kaplan prep courses. Plus, you will get discounts on merchandise and financial services like health and life insurance.

Tar Heels near and far: Meet new Carolina friends through our worldwide network of local Carolina Clubs. In addition, you can have fun with other young alumni on our travel and adventure programs designed just for your schedule and budget.

Stop by and visit us in the George Watts Hill Alumni Center on Stadium Drive. For more information on membership in the association, please call (919) 962-0742 or email membership@unc.edu. Visit us on the Web at alumni.unc.edu.

Class of 1953 Continues Tradition

Representatives from Carolina's Class of 1953 will carry on a fairly new commencement tradition. As part of their fiftieth class reunion, the most recent inductees into the General Alumni Association's Old Students Club will join the academic processional and precede the undergraduates. Watch for the Class of 1953 members adorned in Carolina blue gowns and wearing medallions commemorating their golden anniversary reunion.

Kenan Stadium

Kenan Stadium holds many memories for Carolina alumni and the citizens of North Carolina.

Graduates and their families remember the beautiful surroundings during each year's commencement. But the stadium's special place in Carolina's history comes not only from graduation ceremonies, but also from the important events held in the national spotlight: President Bill Clinton's speech on the Bicentennial University Day 1993; President John F. Kennedy's visit on University Day 1961; Navy pilots marching in parade formation before serving in World War II; Tar Heel football teams battling rivals on autumn afternoons.

Nestled among towering pines, Kenan Stadium is one of the country's most beautiful sports arenas. Planning for a larger stadium began in 1921 when Emerson Field, located where Davis Library is now, could no longer accommodate the number of fans who came to watch the Tar Heel football team. An alumnus, William Rand Kenan Jr., was looking for a way to honor his parents when the University asked him to help finance a stadium. He volunteered to pay the entire bill.

Construction of the new stadium started in 1926 in a ravine near the campus buildings. The administration soon decided the site was too near the campus buildings and moved it farther south along the ravine. For most of the year mule teams worked the area, dragging out logs and shaping the natural amphitheatre. The workers also channeled a stream in the ravine and covered it, creating a tunnel. The stream still runs under the field.

While work was in progress, Kenan added to his first gift, making possible construction of the fieldhouse, which has since been expanded four times. Construction of the original stadium and fieldhouse cost $303,000.

On 12 November 1927, Carolina played its first game in the new Kenan Memorial Stadium, beating Davidson College, 27-0. Twelve days later, on Thanksgiving Day, an overflow crowd watched the dedication of the stadium to the memory of Kenan's parents and saw Carolina defeat Virginia, 14-13. William Rand Kenan Jr. was at the game. One can imagine him remembering the days more than thirty years before when he played for the blue and white on the field near South Building.

In 1977 the Kenan Charitable Trust funded the expansion of the stadium fieldhouse. Renovations in 1988 cost $7 million, and included an eighty-yard press box that replaced its cramped predecessor on the stadium's south side. The press box houses working areas for the media as well as areas for medical personnel, security, coaches' boxes, athletic director's boxes, and the Educational Foundation guest boxes. The north side features the Chancellor's guest box.

The 1998 addition of the Frank H. Kenan Football Center and nearly 2,000 more seats on the west end zone side brought the capacity to 60,000. The four-level center houses the football offices, locker rooms, weight room, computer labs, study areas, the Hall of Honor, and much more.
